HOW TO FIND THE BEST CARERS

Find out the key factors that make care a success

THE SUCCESSFUL
APPROACH THAT WORKS

---

Everyone says finding carers is difficult.

We can't find anyone...

We don't have anyone...

They aren't a good fit...

There aren't enough...

They don't turn up on time...

We know the exact things that make care a success.

We look for those things.

“She's absolutely fantastic.”

So what are the things to look for that make care a success.

Well first let's take a look at the things that DON'T necessarily make the care a success. This is important to know also.

Experience.

We have found the experience bares NO reflection to the nature of the care. Where there is experience the care does NOT always work well.

Qualifications.

We've also found the same with qualifications and training levels. Where there is a high level also bares NO reflection on whether the care goes on to work well.

So what does WORK?

Desire.

The desire to WANT to do the work. The desire to WANT to make a difference. If this is present, the care works, very well.

Compassion.

A caring, compassionate nature. Where this is present, the care works, very well.

Trust.

When trust is present FROM THE START the care is a success. Where there is mistrust it doesn't work. Trust until given a reason not to is the way to ensure care works well.

When there is a wait until there is a reason to trust the carer, the care rarely works even when the carer is good.

Good Pay.

When pay is low. Carers look for other jobs. Consistency is poor. The care doesn't work.

Those are the 4 keys to getting GREAT care. Not good care. GREAT care.

Desire.

Compassion.

Trust.

Good pay.

We look for DESIRE and COMPASSION in ALL our carers and we TEST for this in clever, subtle ways.

We then trust and pay our carers well.

= GREAT CARE.
